

CARE OF SCHOOL PROPERTY

It is the duty of every teacher and principal in charge of school buildings to instruct students in the proper care of public property and to exercise due care in the protection of school property against damage, either by defacement or breakage. If the teacher or principal should permit damage to property by gross negligence or willful neglect of duty, the person may be held financially responsible.

All employees must see that any unsanitary condition, damage to school property, or needed repair is reported to the principal.
