The Jackson Public School District staff plays a most important role in creating public understanding of schools. The educator’s profession and all related endeavors occupy a position of public trust. Schools are most effective when the staff-community relationship operates in a friendly, cooperative and constructive manner. (IGF)

In fulfilling the staff-community relationship obligation, the staff should:

- Participate in activities for community improvement
- Keep the community informed about school activities
- Conduct itself in such a manner that its action will not discredit the community
- Assist in clarifying the purposes and values of high quality education
- Maintain public confidence by constantly improving its services to the students

SOURCE: Jackson Public School District, Jackson, Mississippi
DATE: December 18, 1978
AMENDED: July 16, 1990